

Brave Like My Brother: A Boy with Autism Who Saved a Life

Marc Tyler Nobleman was a typical little boy. He loved to play with his friends, go to school, and spend time with his family. But Marc was also different from other kids. He had autism, a developmental disability that affected the way he communicated and interacted with others.

Despite his challenges, Marc was a happy and loving child. He had a big heart and always wanted to help others. One day, Marc's family was on vacation at the beach. They were playing in the sand when Marc saw a little girl struggling in the water. The girl was caught in a rip tide and was being pulled away from shore.
