Care

Basenjis are relatively low maintenance dogs, but they still require regular care to stay healthy and happy. Here are some tips on how to care for your Basenji:

- Feeding: Basenjis should be fed a high-quality diet that is appropriate for their age and activity level. Avoid feeding your Basenji table scraps, as this can lead to obesity and other health problems.
- Exercise: Basenjis are active dogs that need regular exercise. Aim to give your Basenji at least 30 minutes of exercise per day, either through walks, runs, or playtime in the yard.
- Grooming: Basenjis have short, smooth coats that require minimal grooming. Brush your Basenji's coat weekly to remove dead hair and keep it looking its best.
- Training: Basenjis are intelligent dogs, but they can be stubborn. Training should start early and be consistent. Use positive reinforcement techniques, such as treats and praise, to train your Basenji.

Feeding

As mentioned above, Basenjis should be fed a high-quality diet that is appropriate for their age and activity level. There are many different types of dog food available, so it is important to do your research to find the one that is right for your Basenji.

Here are some tips on how to feed your Basenji:

- Feed your Basenji two meals per day, one in the morning and one in the evening.
- Measure your Basenji's food to ensure that they are not overeating.
- Avoid feeding your Basenji table scraps, as this can lead to obesity and other health problems.
- Make sure that your Basenji has access to fresh water at all times.

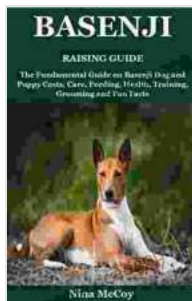

Health

Basenjis are generally healthy dogs, but they are prone to certain health conditions, such as:

- Fanconi syndrome: This is a kidney disorder that can lead to dehydration, electrolyte imbalances, and even death.
- Progressive retinal atrophy: This is a degenerative eye disease that can lead to blindness.
- Hip dysplasia: This is a joint disorder that can cause pain and lameness.

It is important to take your Basenji to the vet for regular checkups to ensure that they are healthy and to catch any potential health problems early.

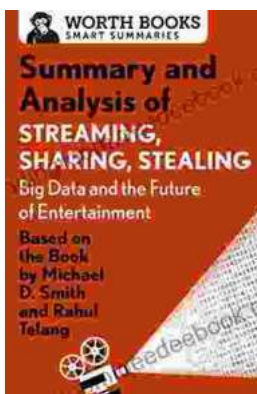

The Basenji is a unique and fascinating breed of dog that can make a great companion for the right family. If you are considering getting a Basenji, be sure to do your research to make sure that this breed is a good fit for your lifestyle.
